Building Capabilities to Win

Presenter - Colin Benton, Owner, People, Process & Performance Ltd and Computer Software Consultant, Capel Iwan

What are capabilities? Capabilities are anything an organization does well that drives meaningful business results. But CEOs do not value capabilities. Instead they value the increased performance that capabilities can bring. Most businesses have a small number of top-priority initiatives each year. And demonstrating how capabilities help drive these initiatives creates a clear picture of driving value. So instead of measuring capabilities, measure performance. Capabilities are the fuel that takes the business where it needs to go.

Join us for lively discussion on Business capabilities of Human Capital Management, Work Management, and Customer Management.

Project Academies : Professionalizing Project Managers

Presenter - Sylvain Demuyter, Senior Manager / Quality Director, Accenture

In order to address the growing complexities of project management ('software package', complex legacies, internationalization, off-shore, Digital, cost reductions...) some companies have decided to harmonize project management practices and professionalize project managers. The objective is to reinforce end-to-end project manager responsibility in a complex organization by the introduction of a company wide curriculum and certification.
